CODE OF CONDUCT AND ETHICS

As amended June 20, 2024

I. INTRODUCTION

Arcutis Biotherapeutics, Inc., a Delaware corporation (collectively with its subsidiaries, the “Company”) has adopted this Code of Conduct and Ethics (this “Code”) to set high standards of ethical business conduct and provide guidance.

A. Scope

This Code shall apply to every member (each, a “director” and collectively, the “directors”) of the Board of Directors (the “Board”), along with every officer, employee, independent contractor and consultant of the Company (which we refer to collectively, including directors, as “employees” in this Code). The Company may modify or update these more specific policies and procedures from time to time and adopt new Company policies and procedures in the future.

Nothing in this Code is intended to alter the existing legal rights and obligations of the Company or any of its employees or directors, including “at will” employment arrangements or the terms of any employment-related agreements.

B. Responsibility

It is every employee’s and director’s responsibility to read and understand this Code, and to use it as a guide to the performance of his or her responsibilities for the Company. This Code cannot address every ethical issue or circumstance that may arise, so, in complying with the letter and spirit of this Code, employees and directors must apply common sense, together with high personal standards of ethics, honesty and accountability, in making business decisions where this Code has no specific guideline. In complying with this Code, employees and directors should also consider the conduct of their family members, others who live in their household, close friends and Personal Relations (as defined in Section V below).

The Company expects all of its directors, executives, managers and other supervisory personnel to help foster a sense of commitment to this Code among all of its employees, and to foster a culture of fairness, honesty and accountability within the Company. The Company also expects such personnel to ensure that the Company’s agents and contractors conform to the standards of this Code when working on the Company’s behalf.

C. Compliance

Any employee that needs help understanding this Code, or how it applies to conduct in any given situation should contact his or her supervisor or the Company’s Compliance Officer. The Company has designated the Company’s Chief Compliance Officer with respect to healthcare compliance related matters and the General Counsel on all other matters, in each case as its Compliance Officer (the “Compliance Officer”) for purposes of this Code. In the event of the Company’s Chief Compliance Officer’s unavailability, the Company’s General Counsel shall be authorized to serve as the Compliance Officer in the interim. In the event of the Company’s General Counsel’s unavailability, the Company’s Chief Financial Officer shall be authorized to serve as the Compliance Officer in the interim.

Employees should also be alert to possible violations of this Code by others and should report suspected violations, without fear of any form of retaliation, as described in Section XIII.

II. APPLICABLE DOCUMENTS

This Code is intended to supplement and not to replace existing Company policies and procedures, as they may exist from time to time.

III. GENERAL LEGAL AND ETHICAL OBLIGATIONS

A. Legal Compliance

The Company's success depends upon each employee and director performing his or her Company duties in compliance with applicable laws and in cooperation with governmental authorities. Compliance with the law both in letter and in spirit, is the foundation of this Code. It is essential that employees and directors know and understand the legal and regulatory requirements that apply to the Company's business and to their specific area of responsibility. Throughout this Code, we reference some of the most important laws and regulations that apply to the Company's business.

The Company and its employees must comply with all applicable laws and regulations governing the research, manufacture and product quality, testing, review and approval, shipment, storage, labeling, promotion, distribution and sales of the Company's products. The Company's operations and products are subject to rigorous and comprehensive regulation by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. The Company's commitment to develop and manufacture safe and effective products and legally and ethically inform of or promote them to patients and providers requires full compliance with all laws and regulations pertinent to the research, development, manufacturing and sale of products.

While employees and directors are not expected to have complete mastery of these laws, rules and regulations, they are expected to be able to recognize situations that require them to consult with others to determine the appropriate course of action. To address questions in the area of legal compliance, employees should approach their supervisor or the Compliance Officer immediately.

Legal compliance is only a part of the Company's ethical responsibility, however, and should be viewed as the minimum acceptable standard of conduct. The Company strives to act with the utmost integrity, not just in its most important corporate decisions, but also in the actions taken every day by its employees and directors. Ethical conduct is a high ideal, but often just means exercising common sense and sound judgment. Acting ethically will help the Company become a better company, a better partner for other companies, and a better corporate citizen.

B. International Business Laws

Employees and directors are expected to comply with all applicable laws wherever they travel on Company business, including laws prohibiting bribery, corruption or the conduct of business with specified individuals, companies or countries. The Company also expects employees and directors to continue to comply with the United States ("U.S.") laws, rules and regulations governing the conduct of business by U.S. citizens and corporations outside the U.S.

These U.S. laws, rules and regulations, which extend to all of the Company's activities outside the U.S., include:

- The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, which prohibits any corrupt offer, payment, promise to pay, or authorization to pay any money, gift, or anything of value (made directly or through intermediaries) to any foreign official, or foreign political party, candidate or official, in order to obtain or retain business for anyone or direct business to anyone, and requires the maintenance of accurate books of account, with all company transactions being properly recorded;
- U.S. embargoes, which restrict or, in some cases, prohibit U.S. persons, corporations and, in some cases, foreign subsidiaries from doing business with certain countries, groups or individuals;
- Export controls, which restrict travel to designated countries or prohibit or restrict the export of goods, services and technology to designated countries, identified persons or entities from the U.S., or the re-export of U.S.-origin goods from the country of original destination to such designated countries or identified companies or entities; and
- Anti-boycott compliance, which prohibits U.S. companies from taking any action that has the effect of furthering any unsanctioned boycott of a country friendly to the U.S.

For additional information, please see the Company's Anti-Corruption Policy. Employees and directors who have questions as to whether an activity is restricted or prohibited should contact the Compliance Officer before taking any action.

C. Lawsuits and Legal Proceedings

The Company complies with all laws and regulations regarding the preservation of records.

Lawsuits, legal proceedings, and investigations concerning the Company must be handled promptly and properly. An employee must notify the Company's General Counsel immediately if he or she receives a court order or a court issued document, or notice of a threatened lawsuit, legal proceeding, or investigation that could impact the Company. A legal hold suspends all document destruction procedures in order to preserve appropriate records under special circumstances, such as litigation or government investigations. When there is a "legal hold" in place, employees may not alter, destroy, or discard documents relevant to the lawsuit, legal proceeding or investigation. The Company's General Counsel determines and identifies what types of records or documents are required to be placed under a legal hold and will notify employees if a legal hold is placed on records for which they are responsible. If an employee is involved on the Company's behalf in a lawsuit or other legal dispute, he or she must avoid discussing it with anyone inside or outside of the Company without prior approval of the Company's General Counsel. Employees and their managers are required to cooperate fully with the General Counsel and the Company's management in the course of any lawsuit, legal proceeding, or investigation.

IV. INTERACTIONS WITH HEALTHCARE PROFESSIONALS

We believe that healthcare professional's care of patients should be based solely on each patient's medical needs and the healthcare professional's medical knowledge and experience. As such, we are committed to operating with the highest standards of ethics, professionalism, and integrity in our interactions with healthcare professionals.

The Company maintains a comprehensive Policy on Interactions with Healthcare Professionals and Patients, which establishes the standards of conduct for the marketing and sale of Arcutis' products, as well as our interactions with healthcare professionals and government officials. The Company's Policy on Interactions with Healthcare Professionals and Patients is specifically designed to enable compliance with applicable laws and regulations related to the marketing and promotion of pharmaceutical drug products. A critical component is ensuring that healthcare professionals have accurate, balanced information regarding the Company's products so that prescription, referral or purchasing decisions can be made with their own independent medical judgment. These interactions must be conducted in a fair and ethical manner to ensure such decisions are made objectively, and not on the basis of a financial relationship. All Arcutis employees who engage in or support the marketing or sale of Arcutis products or who have interactions related to Arcutis products with US HCPs or Government Officials are required to read, acknowledge and comply with this policy.

Below are some of the most important laws, regulations and principles, along with other laws and policies referenced in this Code, that govern our business and shape the Company's Policy on Interactions with Healthcare Professionals and Patients:

- Interactions with Healthcare Professionals about Products: Interactions of sales personnel, Medical Affairs and other personnel with healthcare professionals are intended to provide valuable product and disease state information for the benefit of patients and the practice of medicine. Certain elements pertinent to the responsible and appropriate dissemination of product information include, but are not limited to:
  - Promoting products consistent with FDA-approved labeling
  - Adhering to FDA regulations prohibiting the promotion of investigational products
  - Providing balanced benefit/risk information on products, whether approved or investigational
  - Expressly prohibiting the solicitation, encouragement or promotion of off-label/unapproved uses of pharmaceutical products
  - Appropriately discussing truthful and non-misleading scientific information on unapproved products/uses, such as responding (usually Medical Affairs) to unsolicited requests from healthcare professionals
  - Reporting adverse events and product complaints relating to the Company's products
  - Appropriate training, monitoring and auditing relevant employees, such as sales personnel, on the above principles

- Federal and State Anti-Kickback Laws: Anti-kickback (AKS) laws prohibit anyone from offering, paying, soliciting, or receiving anything of value in return or as an inducement to refer, prescribe or purchase a pharmaceutical product that is reimbursed under a federally or state funded healthcare program. Violations can lead to civil and/or criminal penalties as against the Company as well as individuals (whether employees or healthcare professionals) involved, including fines, imprisonment and potential exclusion of the Company's products from reimbursement under the Medicare and Medicaid programs. Certain state AKS laws can also apply to products that are not reimbursed by a federal or state program.

- Federal and State False Claims: Federal and similar state laws prohibit anyone from knowingly and willfully making or causing to be made any false statement or representation for the purpose of obtaining benefits or payments from the federal or a state government or healthcare programs. Violations of these laws include providing false information to healthcare professionals related to coding, pricing, or submission of claims to government programs and the promotion of products for unapproved uses.

V. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

A conflict of interest occurs when an individual's private and/or personal interest (including the interest of a member of his or her family, or a Company employee or vendor with whom such individual has a romantic or intimate relationship (“Personal Relation”)) interferes, or even appears to interfere, with the interests of the Company as a whole. A conflict of interest can arise when an employee or director takes actions or has interests that may make it difficult to perform his or her work for the Company objectively and effectively. Conflicts of interest also arise when an employee or director (or a member of his or her family, or Personal Relation) receives improper personal benefits as a result of his or her position in the Company. The Company strongly believes that a work environment where employees maintain clear boundaries between employee personal and business interactions is necessary for effective business operations.

Every employee and director must avoid situations where loyalties may be divided between the Company’s interests and the employee’s or director’s own private and/or personal interests. Employees and directors should also seek to avoid the appearance of a conflict of interest. If an employee is considering engaging in a transaction or activity (including without limitation, entering into a consulting agreement) that may present a conflict of interest or the appearance of a conflict of interest, the employee should disclose the matter to the Compliance Officer, so that, if appropriate, the Compliance Officer may disseminate such information and/or obtain approvals before the employee engages in such transaction or activity.

In evaluating whether an actual or contemplated activity may involve a conflict of interest, an employee or director should consider:

- whether the activity would appear improper to an outsider;
- whether the activity could interfere with the job performance or morale of a Company employee;
- whether the employee or director involved in the activity has access to confidential Company information or influence over significant Company resources or decisions;
- the potential impact of the activity on the Company’s business relationships, including relationships with suppliers, competitors, partners, employees and anyone else with whom he or she has contact in the course of performing his or her job; and
- the extent to which the activity could benefit the employee or director, his or her relative or Personal Relation, directly or indirectly.

A few examples of activities that could involve conflicts of interests include:

- Aiding the Company’s competitors. Aiding the Company’s competitors can include, without limitation, passing confidential Company information to a competitor, consulting for a competitor, or accepting payments or other benefits from a competitor.
- Participating in any company that does business with the Company or seeks to do business with the Company. Employment by or service on the board of a supplier or partner is generally discouraged and employees and directors must seek approval in advance if they plan to have such a relationship.
- Owning a significant financial interest in a competitor or a company that does business with the Company or seeks to do business with the Company. In evaluating such interests for conflicts, both direct and indirect interests that an employee or director may have should be considered, along with factors such as the following:
  - the size and nature of the interest;

- the nature of the Company's relationship with the other entity;
- whether the employee or director has access to confidential Company information; and
- whether the employee or director has an ability to influence Company decisions that would affect the other entity.

Any employee or director who has or wishes to acquire a significant financial interest in a competitor; or in a supplier or partner with which he or she has direct business dealings (or approval responsibilities) must consult with the Compliance Officer. Similarly, any employee or director who experiences a change of position or seniority that results in direct business dealings with a supplier, competitor or partner in which he or she already has a significant financial interest must consult with the Compliance Officer.

- Hiring, managing or having authority over a co-worker who is also a family member, close friend or Personal Relation, or transacting business on behalf of the Company with a family member, close friend or Personal Relation. Any employee who may be involved in such a situation must consult with his or her supervisor or the Compliance Officer, and in the specific case of a Personal Relation must notify and consult with the Chief Human Resources Officer to assess the situation and an appropriate resolution. An employee does not have the authority to hire, retain, transfer or promote a relative or Personal Relation if this would result in a supervisory relationship with said employee and person affected. Such persons should not occupy a position in the same department (e.g., clinical development department or commercial operations marketing department) but may be in the same function (e.g., R&D or Commercial), and should not be in a supervisory position of the other.
- Soliciting or accepting payments, gifts, loans, favors or preferential treatment from any person or entity that does or seeks to do business with the Company. See Section V.A. for further discussion of the issues involved in this type of conflict.
- Taking personal advantage of corporate opportunities. See Section V.B. for further discussion of the issues involved in this type of conflict.

Employees must avoid these situations (and others like them), whenever their loyalty to the Company could be compromised. Employees who believe they are involved in a potential conflict of interest are expected to discuss it with the Compliance Officer or the Chief Human Resources Officer, as appropriate.

Like employees, directors should also seek to avoid conflicts of interest with their obligations to the Company. To that end, any director who confronts a conflict of interest in connection with a decision to be made by the Board, or otherwise, should take such steps as are necessary to avoid the conflict of interest, including notifying the Chairperson of the Board and Chief Executive Officer and, if appropriate, recusing himself or herself from discussions by the Board which could be perceived to create such a conflict.

A. Gifts and Entertainment.

Building strong relationships with suppliers and partners is essential to the Company's business. Socializing with suppliers and partners is an integral part of building those relationships. However, good judgment should be exercised in providing or accepting business meals and entertainment or inexpensive gifts, so that all such conduct is consistent with customary and prudent business practices. The case is different when interacting with healthcare professionals. Gifts and entertainment may not be provided to any healthcare professional. For more information, please see the Company's Policy on Interactions with Healthcare Professionals and Patients.

While individual circumstances differ, the overriding principle concerning gratuities is not to give or accept anything of value that could be perceived as creating an obligation on the part of the recipient (whether a Company employee, a supplier or a partner) to act other than in the best interests of his or her employer or otherwise to taint the objectivity of the individual's involvement. It is the responsibility of each employee to ensure that providing or accepting a gratuity is appropriate under the circumstances.

This principle applies to the Company's transactions everywhere in the world, even if it conflicts with local custom. Under some statutes, such as the United States Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, giving anything of value to a government official to obtain or retain business or favorable treatment is a criminal act subject to prosecution and conviction. For more information, see the Company's Anti-Corruption Policy. In other jurisdictions, such as the United Kingdom, anti-bribery laws not only cover government officials but also govern the provision of value to a private party to obtain or retain business. Please contact the Company's Law Department if you have any questions.

B. Corporate Opportunities

Employees and directors may not compete with the Company or take personal advantage of business opportunities that the Company might want to pursue without the prior approval of the Compliance Officer or the Board, as appropriate. Employees and directors are prohibited from taking for themselves personally (or for the benefit of friends or family members) opportunities that are discovered through the use of Company assets, property, information or position. Additionally, employees and directors may not use Company assets, property, information or position for personal gain (including gain of friends, family members or Personal Relations) and may not compete with the Company.

Employees and directors who are interested in the use of the Company's property or information, or in pursuing an opportunity that they discovered through their Company position, should consult with the Compliance Officer to determine an appropriate course of action. Even opportunities that are acquired through independent sources may be questionable if they are related to the Company's existing or proposed lines of business. Employees and directors owe a duty to the Company to advance its legitimate business interests when opportunities arise.

C. Employee Loans

Loans to employees, Personal Relations or their family members by the Company, or guarantees of their loan obligations, could constitute an improper personal benefit to the recipients of such loans or guarantees. Accordingly, Company loans and guarantees for executive officers and directors are expressly prohibited. Any loans to employees require the prior approval of the Board.

D. Related-Party Transactions

A related-party transaction includes any transaction, or series of similar transactions, since the beginning of the Company's last fiscal year, or any currently proposed transaction or series of similar transactions, where: (i) the Company or its subsidiary is a party or participant, (ii) the amount involved exceeds $120,000 in aggregate, and (iii) in which any of the following persons had or will have a direct or indirect material interest: any person who is, or was at any time since the beginning of the Company's last fiscal year, a director, director nominee or an executive officer; any holder of more than five percent of the Company's common stock; or any member of the immediate family of such persons. The Company will conduct a review of all related-party transactions for potential conflicts of interest situations. For more information, see the Company's Related-Party Transactions Policy.

E. Personal Relations

In addition to the foregoing in this Section V., Personal Relations must not affect, or create an inappropriate appearance of affecting, an employee's job performance, the work environment or interests of the Company.

- Employees are strictly prohibited from engaging in inappropriate conduct or intimate physical contact that would in any way be deemed inappropriate in the workplace by a reasonable person while anywhere on Company premises or at events attended by other Company employees, whether during working hours or not;
- Given the impression of conflict of interests which could arise and their level of constructive authority, Executive Team members engaging in a Personal Relation with another Executive Team member or any other employee may be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

VI. INSIDER TRADING

Every employee and director is prohibited from using "inside" or material nonpublic information about the Company, or about companies with which it does business, in connection with buying or selling the Company's or such other companies' securities, including "tipping" others who might make an investment decision on the basis of this information. It is illegal, and it is a violation of this Code and other Company policies, to tip or to trade on inside information. Employees or directors who have access to inside information are not permitted to use or share that inside information for stock trading purposes or for any other purpose except to conduct Company business.

Employees must exercise the utmost care when in possession of material nonpublic information. The Company's Insider Trading Policy provides guidance on the sorts of information that might be nonpublic and material for these purposes, and guidelines on when and how employees and directors may purchase or sell shares of Company stock or other Company securities. The Company strongly encourages all employees and directors to review the Company's Insider Trading Policy for additional information.

VII. COMPETITION AND FAIR DEALING

The Company strives to compete vigorously and to gain advantages over its competitors through superior business performance, not through unethical or illegal business practices. Each employee and director must deal fairly with the Company's suppliers, competitors, partners, employees and anyone else with whom he or she has contact in the course of performing his or her job. No employee or director may take unfair advantage of anyone through manipulation, concealment, abuse or privileged information, misrepresentation of facts or any other unfair dealing practice.

A. Policies Specific to Procurement

Employees involved in procurement have a special responsibility to adhere to principles of fair competition in the purchase of products and services by selecting suppliers based exclusively on normal commercial considerations, such as quality, cost, availability, service and reputation, and not on the receipt of special favors.

B. Antitrust Laws

Antitrust laws are designed to protect customers and the competitive process. These laws generally prohibit the Company from establishing:

- price fixing arrangements with competitors;
- arrangements with competitors to share pricing information or other competitive marketing information, or to allocate markets or customers;
- agreements with competitors or customers to boycott particular suppliers, customers or competitors; and
- a monopoly or attempted monopoly through anticompetitive conduct.

Noncompliance with the antitrust laws can have extremely negative consequences for the Company, including long and costly investigations and lawsuits, substantial fines or damages, and adverse publicity. Understanding the requirements of antitrust and unfair competition laws of the jurisdictions where the Company does business can be difficult, so employees and directors are urged to seek assistance from a member of the Law Department whenever they have a question relating to these laws. For more information, please see the Company's Policy on Interactions with Healthcare Professionals and Patients.

VIII. MAINTENANCE OF CORPORATE BOOKS, RECORDS AND ACCOUNTS; FINANCIAL INTEGRITY; PUBLIC REPORTING

The Company strives to maintain complete integrity of its records and public disclosure. The Company's corporate and business records, including all supporting entries to its books of account, must be completed honestly, accurately and intelligibly. The Company's records are important to investors and creditors. The Company depends on its books, records and accounts accurately and fairly reflecting, in reasonable detail, its assets, liabilities, revenues, costs and expenses, as well as all transactions and changes in assets and liabilities.

To help ensure the integrity of its records and public disclosure, the Company requires that:

- no entry be made in the Company's books and records that is intentionally false or misleading;
- transactions be supported by appropriate documentation;
- the terms of commercial transactions be reflected accurately in the documentation for those transactions and all such documentation be reflected accurately in the Company's books and records;
- employees comply with the Company's system of internal controls and be held accountable for their entries;
- any off-balance sheet arrangements of the Company be clearly and appropriately disclosed;
- no cash or other assets be maintained for any purpose in any unrecorded or "off-the-books" fund;
- assets and liabilities of the Company shall be recognized and stated in accordance with the Company's standard practices and generally accepted accounting principles in the U.S. ("GAAP"); and
- records be retained or destroyed according to the Company's records retention policy, if applicable.

The Company's disclosure controls and procedures are designed to help ensure that the Company's public disclosures are full, fair and accurate, that they fairly present its financial condition and results of operations, and that they are timely and understandable. Employees who collect, provide or analyze information for or otherwise contribute in any way to preparing or verifying these reports should adhere to all disclosure controls and procedures and generally assist the Company in producing financial disclosures that contain all of the information about the Company that is required by law and would be important to enable investors to understand the Company's business and its attendant risks. In particular:

- no employee may take or authorize any action that would cause the Company's financial records or financial disclosures to fail to comply with GAAP, the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission or other applicable laws, rules and regulations;
- all employees must cooperate fully with the Company's finance department, as well as the Company's independent public accountants and counsel, respond to their questions with candor and provide them with complete and accurate information to help ensure that the Company's books and records, as well as its reports filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, are accurate and complete; and
- no employee shall knowingly make (or cause or encourage any other person to make) any false or misleading statement in any of the Company's reports filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission or any third party or knowingly omit (or cause or encourage any other person to omit) any information necessary to make the disclosure in any of such reports accurate in all material respects.

If any employee becomes aware that the Company's public disclosures are not full, fair and accurate, or if any employee becomes aware of a transaction or development that he or she believes may require disclosure, he or she should report the matter immediately to the Compliance Officer.

IX. POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS AND GIFTS

The Company reserves the right to communicate its position on important issues to elected representatives and other government officials. It is the Company's policy to comply fully with all local, state, federal, foreign and other applicable laws, rules and regulations regarding political contributions. For more information, see the Company's Anti-Corruption Policy.

X. CONFIDENTIALITY

Confidential information includes all non-public information (regardless of its source) that might be of use to competitors, or harmful to the Company, its suppliers or its partners, if disclosed, including any proprietary information shared with the Company by its suppliers and partners, or information that has been acquired by an employee during the course of working for a former employer. Employees have an equal obligation to protect against the unauthorized disclosure or misuse of such third party confidential information. Anyone who has had access to confidential Company information must keep it confidential at all times, both while working for the Company and after employment ends.

A. Sharing Information with Third Parties

Employees must not share the Company's confidential information, or any confidential information of a supplier or partner with anyone who has not been authorized to receive it, except when disclosure is authorized or legally mandated. An employee's unauthorized use or distribution of this information is extremely serious; it would violate the confidentiality agreement he or she entered into with the Company and could be illegal, resulting in civil liability or criminal penalties.

B. Precautions

Employees must take precautions to prevent unauthorized disclosure of confidential information. Accordingly, employees should also take steps to ensure that business-related paperwork and documents are produced, copied, faxed, filed, stored and discarded by means designed to minimize the risk that unauthorized persons might obtain access to confidential information. Employees should not discuss sensitive matters or confidential information in public places. When accessing Company emails and voicemails from personal computers and mobile devices, employees should take steps to ensure that third parties are unable to access or hear information regarding the Company. All Company emails, voicemails and other communications are presumed confidential and should not be forwarded or otherwise disseminated outside of the Company, except where required for legitimate business purposes.

Employees are required to observe the provisions of any other specific policy regarding privacy and confidential information that the Company may adopt from time to time.

C. Privacy

The Company respects the privacy rights of our employees, healthcare professionals, patients and other third parties, and are committed to protecting the privacy and security of personal information. The Company maintains a posted Privacy Notice that explains how Personal Information is handled in connection with Company products, services, apps, and websites. This Privacy Notice applies to all personal information received and processed by the Company. Employees are required to observe the provisions of our Privacy Notice and comply with all additional policies and procedures regarding data protection, privacy and confidential information that the Company may adopt from time to time, as well as any applicable laws relating to data protection and privacy. If an employee becomes aware of any instance of inappropriate handling of information or data or any security breach, the employee should report it immediately.

XI. PROTECTION AND PROPER USE OF COMPANY ASSETS

All employees and directors are expected to protect the Company's assets and ensure their efficient use for legitimate business purposes. Theft, carelessness and waste have a direct impact on the Company's profitability. The Company's property, such as computer equipment, buildings, furniture and furnishings, office supplies and products and inventories, should be used only for activities related to employment, although incidental personal use is permitted.

Employees should bear in mind that the Company retains the right to access, review, monitor and disclose any information transmitted, received or stored using the Company's electronic equipment, with or without an employee's or third party's knowledge, consent or approval. Employees must immediately report any misuse or suspected misuse of the Company's assets to their supervisor or the Compliance Officer.

A. Cybersecurity

The Company recognizes the importance of our Information Technology (IT) infrastructure to provide network connectivity, system access and business continuity. Every employee has a responsibility for cyber security and to play an active role in being sensitive to and protecting Arcutis systems and information from threats of misuse, data/system breaches and other such threats, and report suspicious activity to the IT group (which manages and oversees the Company's cyber security program). Employees are expected to use only company authorized software, laptops, devices and applications, and limit our personal use of Arcutis information systems. Employees are to take precautions to protect Company equipment and data while working remotely and at Company headquarters, including locking their device when leaving it unattended, and in accordance to Section X immediately above (Confidentiality).

XII. MEDIA CONTACTS AND PUBLIC COMMUNICATIONS

It is the Company's policy to disclose material information concerning the Company to the public only in accordance with its communications and disclosure guidelines and policies, in order to avoid inappropriate publicity and to ensure that all such information is communicated in a way that is reasonably designed to provide broad, non-exclusionary distribution of information to the public. For more information, see the Company's Corporate Communications Policy.

A. Public Statements

Occasionally, employees may be contacted by outside sources requesting information about Company matters, including the Company's products, product candidates and financial information or information regarding current or former Company representatives. All of this is confidential and may not be disclosed to outsiders. To avoid disclosing anything confidential, proprietary, incomplete, or inaccurate, employees must decline to comment and immediately contact Compliance Officer.

B. Social Media and the Internet

Social media plays an important role in how we interact with industry thought leaders, prospects, and customers. The Company encourages employees to engage in social media and online communities. However, employees should not discuss any of the Company's nonpublic information (including stock, commercial or clinical product or financial information) online without permission. Further, employees may not discuss the Company's business or products in any Internet "chat room," blog, social media site or other online forum, regardless of whether they use their own name or a pseudonym, or otherwise post the Company's information on the Internet. For more information, contact the Compliance Officer, and also review the Company's Social Media Policy for more details.

XIII. CONDUCT OF SENIOR FINANCIAL PERSONNEL

The Company's Finance Department has a special responsibility to promote integrity throughout the organization, with responsibilities to stakeholders both inside and outside of the Company. As such, the Chief Executive Officer and senior finance department personnel must adhere to the following ethical principles and accept the obligation to foster a culture throughout the Company as a whole that ensures the accurate and timely reporting of the Company's financial results and condition.

Because of this special role, the Company requires that the Chief Executive Officer, Chief Financial Officer, Vice President, Finance, and Director of Finance (if any) and any other persons performing similar functions ("Senior Financial Employees"):

- Act with honesty and integrity and use due care and diligence in performing his or her responsibilities to the Company.
- Avoid situations that represent actual or apparent conflicts of interest with his or her responsibilities to the Company, and disclose promptly to the Audit Committee, any transaction or personal or professional relationship that reasonably could be expected to give rise to such an actual or apparent conflict. Without limiting the foregoing, and for the sake of avoiding an implication of impropriety, Senior Financial Employees shall not:
  - accept any material gift or other gratuitous benefit from a supplier or vendor of products or services, including professional services, to the Company (this prohibition is not intended to preclude ordinary course entertainment or similar social events);
  - except with the approval of the disinterested members of the Board, directly invest in any privately-held company that is a partner or supplier of the Company where the Senior Financial Employee, either directly or through people in his or her chain of command, has responsibility or ability to affect or implement the Company's relationship with the other company; or

- maintain more than a passive investment of greater than 1% of the outstanding shares of a public company that is a supplier or partner of the Company.
- Provide constituents with information that is accurate, complete, objective, relevant, timely and understandable, including information for inclusion in the Company's submissions to governmental agencies or in public statements.
- Comply with applicable laws, rules, and regulations of federal, state and local governments, and of any applicable public or private regulatory and listing authorities.
- Achieve responsible use of and control over all assets and resources entrusted to each Senior Financial Employee.

XIV. COMPLIANCE STANDARDS AND PROCEDURES

A. Compliance Resources

The Company has an obligation to promote ethical behavior. Every employee is encouraged to talk to his or her supervisor, managers and other appropriate personnel when in doubt about the application of any provision of this Code.

In addition to fielding questions with respect to interpretation or potential violations of this Code, the Compliance Officer is responsible for:

- investigating possible violations of this Code;
- ensuring that this Code is reviewed with new employees;
- conducting periodic training sessions to refresh employees' familiarity with this Code; and
- otherwise promoting an atmosphere of responsible and ethical conduct.

The most immediate resource available to employees for matters related to this Code is their supervisor. The supervisor may have the information requested or may be able to refer the question to another appropriate source. There may, however, be times when employees prefer not to go to their supervisor. In these instances, employees should feel free to discuss their concerns with the Compliance Officer. If an employee is uncomfortable speaking with the Compliance Officer because he or she works in that employee's department or is one of his or her supervisors, the employee may contact the Chairperson of the Audit Committee of the Board.

B. Clarifying Questions and Concerns; Reporting Possible Violations

(a) Employee Reporting

If an employee becomes aware of or suspects that unethical or illegal conduct has occurred or is about to occur, the employee should discuss the matter promptly with his or her supervisor or the Compliance Officer, as discussed in Section XIII.A. above. Even the appearance of impropriety could be very damaging to the Company. Employees that are aware of a suspected or actual violation of Code standards by others have a responsibility to report it.

All information regarding suspected ethical violations or unlawful activity will be received on a confidential basis. While complete confidentiality cannot be guaranteed, confidentiality will be maintained to the extent possible in conducting internal investigations and, where action is warranted, in carrying out disciplinary measures. Employees are assured that they may report unethical conduct without fear of retribution. The Company will not tolerate adverse actions being taken against an employee for reporting violations of law or the Company's policies, or for participating in internal investigations. See the Company's Whistleblower and Complaint Policy.

(b) Compliance Officer Investigation

Supervisors must promptly report any complaints or observations of this Code violations to the Compliance Officer. The Compliance Officer, or designee, will investigate all reported possible Code violations promptly and with the highest degree of confidentiality that is possible under the specific circumstances. All employees are required to cooperate fully with any investigation or request related thereto. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

As needed, the Compliance Officer will consult with outside legal counsel, the human resources department, the Audit Committee and the full Board, if necessary.

(c) Response to Violations

If the investigation indicates that a violation of this Code may have occurred, the Company will take such action as it deems appropriate under the circumstances. If the Company determines that an employee is responsible for a Code violation, he or she will be subject to disciplinary action up to, and including, termination of employment and, in appropriate cases, civil action or referral for criminal prosecution. Appropriate action may also be taken to deter any future Code violations.

C. Identification of Responsible Parties; Anonymous Reporting Procedures

Employees are responsible for promptly reporting any issue or concern that they believe in good faith may constitute a violation of this Code or any other Company policy. Employees who wish to anonymously submit a concern or complaint regarding a possible violation of this Code should follow the procedures outlined in the Company's Whistleblower and Complaint Policy.

D. Creating a Respectful Environment

The Company has zero tolerance for any type of discrimination or harassment. Period.

If an employee believes there has been a violation of this policy, they should immediately report the situation to Compliance Officer so that an immediate investigation can be conducted. The Company expects everyone to treat each other with respect and dignity. Everyone is entitled to a work environment that is free of unlawful discrimination and harassment.

(a) Equal Opportunity Employer

The Company is an equal opportunity employer. It does not unlawfully discriminate in employment opportunities or practices on the basis of gender, race, color, religion, age, citizenship, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, pregnancy, national origin, ancestry, physical or mental disability or condition, or any other protected class under applicable federal, state, or local laws. The Company also prohibits unlawful discrimination based on the perception that anyone has any of those characteristics or is associated with a person who has or is perceived as having any of those characteristics.

(b) Harassment

The Company is committed to maintaining a respectful workplace, which includes a working environment that is free from unlawful harassment. This policy applies to all work-related settings and activities, whether inside or outside the workplace, and includes business trips and business-related social events. If an employee believes that there has been a violation of these policies, he or she must report the possible violation to Compliance Officer.

XV. WAIVERS

Each of the Board (in the case of a violation by a director or an executive officer) and the Compliance Officer (in the case of a violation by any other person) may, in its discretion, waive any violation of this Code. Any waiver for a director or an executive officer will be disclosed as required by applicable laws, rules and regulations.

XVI. NO RIGHTS CREATED

This Code is a statement of fundamental principles, policies and procedures that govern the Company's employees, officers and directors in the conduct of the Company's business. It is not intended to and does not create any legal rights for any supplier, partner, competitor, stockholder or any other person or entity.

XVII. ADMINISTRATION, MODIFICATION AND AMENDMENT

The Company's Audit Committee is responsible for overseeing the establishment of procedures for the prompt internal reporting of violations of this Code. This Code shall be reviewed periodically by the Board and the Audit Committee and shall be updated as deemed appropriate or necessary by the Board or the Audit Committee
